

STEPHEN FROEDGE

LATIN TEACHER

Mr. Froedge earned his B.A. in Classical Studies from the University of California, San Diego—his hometown. He went on to earn an M.A. in Classical Studies from the University of Kansas before ultimately earning a PhD in Classical Philology from the University of Illinois. At both universities he focused on Latin poetry.

Since completing his schooling in 2020, Mr. Froedge has been teaching Latin and mythology at the middle school and high school levels at a classical school in Las Vegas. He is thrilled to continue his teaching career at NOCA.

In addition to high school and middle school teaching, Mr. Froedge has served as an editorial assistant for academic journals and taught Latin and mythology at the collegiate level over the past ten years.

He met his wife while they were both students at the University of Illinois. They have a wonderful five year old daughter (Livia). They love to travel and were lucky enough to celebrate their daughter's second birthday in Germany, while studying abroad. They also enjoy hiking and bookstores.
