

MRS. SUSAN BACHMAYER

Lower School Teacher

Mrs. Susan Bachmayer was born and raised in Toledo, Ohio. She attended the University of Toledo and majored in Elementary Education. After graduation, she taught first grade at Calvary Christian School, which providentially is the same building that NOCA currently resides in. Then, she went on to teach 2nd grade at Toledo Christian for seven years.

After getting married and eventually having five children, she left the classroom to pursue raising and educating her children at home. “I have fond memories of the time I spent at home educating my children. While homeschooling, I fell in love with classical education through a local program called Classical Conversations.”

Now, as her children are older, she felt a call to return to the classroom. Mrs. Bachmayer has been a substitute teacher at NOCA, so she is familiar with our classical curriculum and school philosophy. “One of the great beauties of classical education is that it teaches students how to learn and how to think. I look forward to challenging my students in these areas.”
